Mission Viego offers new designs

Mission Viego, a planned community built by a California firm in Southeast Arizona, has sold out its original designs and many of its townhomes, and now is introducing two new single family developments called Smokey Ridge and The Summit.

They will be an extension of the existing community and as such will have full access to the recreational facilities and will be close to the community's own shopping center.

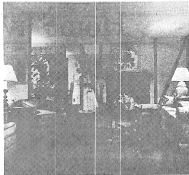

The three models that make up the offerings at Smokey Ridge are The Silverton, The Carbonado and The Larkspur.

The basic stripped down prices range from $55,900 to $69,900.

The three designs have good points and a few weak ones.

The Larkspur is the top of the line — a one-story home with ceiling with 1,500 sq. ft. of living space.

The front door opens on the living room — a large formal area that leads itself to a variety of door treatments. Adjacent to it are stairs leading up and down. They are a little out of scale and demand too much attention.
